

Discuss the role of parents in nurturing and fostering responsible and mature children, who can handle stress in the light of this story. Write your opinion in connection to the story The Cut Off by Chetan Bhagat.

The Cut Off, by Chetan Bhagat, is a story about a young man, Chetan, who is struggling to pass his college entrance exam. He is feeling immense pressure from his parents and society to get a good score, but he is unable to study due to his anxiety and fear of failure. Chetan's parents, who are both doctors, are portrayed as overbearing and demanding, yet they are ultimately supportive and encouraging of their son.

In the story, the role of parents in nurturing and fostering responsible and mature children is highlighted. Chetan's parents provide him with emotional and financial support to help him prepare for the exam. They encourage him to focus on the positive aspects of the exam and to practice positive thinking. Although they are disappointed when he does not get the score he wants, they continue to be supportive and understanding.

Ultimately, parents play a key role in helping their children become responsible and mature adults. They must provide support and guidance, while also giving their children the freedom and independence to make decisions for themselves. It is important for parents to foster a positive environment where their children can learn and grow, while also providing them with the tools and resources to manage stress. By setting positive examples and providing a safe and nurturing environment, parents can help their children develop the skills and knowledge needed to make well-informed decisions and to handle the challenges of life.
